Snow Much Fun!!!

This short week has been busy! During the week this week, I have been pulling out every student from the classroom to test reading levels. We have had several different teachers in the classroom while I have been in and out testing, and the boys and girls have had to adjust to this different schedule. Next week we will hopefully get back into our routine. ☺ Next week we will continue with winter activities and celebrate our 100th day of school on Thursday! Be sure to ask your child all about it!
